Boundaries.

Jesus again breaks all boundaries.

Normally in their tradition, the women would be in the kitchen preparing the meal and the man would be in the living room entertaining the guest/s.

But here we have Jesus entertaining Mary, or Mary entertaining Jesus.

Don't be a Martha or a Mary, but have a healthy mix of both: A day of work with plenty of prayer.

BISHOP JOHN WILSON

We welcome Bishop John Wilson to the Archdiocese. He will be officially installed at a 12 o'clock mass on Thursday 25th July at St Georges Cathedral.

Agnes will be singing and all are welcome.

There will also be a live broadcast of this event on the RC Southwark YouTube channel:

11. Francis helps us to see that an integral ecology calls for openness to categories which transcend the language of mathematics and biology, and take us to the heart of what it is to be human. Just as happens when we fall in love with someone, whenever he would gaze at the sun, the moon or the smallest of animals, he burst into song, drawing all other creatures into his praise. He communed with all creation, even preaching to the flowers, inviting them "to praise the Lord, just as if they were endowed with reason".

His response to the world around him was so much more than intellectual appreciation or economic calculus, for to him each and every creature was a sister united to him by bonds of affection. That is why he felt called to care for all that exists. His disciple Saint Bonaventure tells us that, "from a reflection on the primary source of all things, filled with even more abundant piety, he would call creatures, no matter how small, by the name of 'brother' or 'sister'".

Such a conviction cannot be written off as naive romanticism, for it affects the choices which determine our behaviour. If we approach nature and the environment without this openness to awe and wonder, if we no longer speak the language of fraternity and beauty in our relationship with the world, our attitude will be that of masters, consumers, ruthless exploiters, unable to set limits on their immediate needs. By contrast, if we feel intimately united with all that exists, then sobriety and care will well up spontaneously. The poverty and austerity of Saint Francis were no mere veneer of asceticism, but something much more radical: a refusal to turn reality into an object simply to be used and controlled.

Undecided people loose half of their life: The energetic double theirs.
